2019 ECOS State Environmental Protection (STEP) Meeting
From the Flintstones to the Jetsons: How Technology is Transforming Environmental Protection
Washington, DC

April 29, 2019

Dear Friend of ECOS:

The Environmental Council of the States (ECOS) is pleased to announce the July 10 STEP Meeting - From the Flintstones to the Jetsons: How Technology is Transforming Environmental Protection. This summertime meeting will be held in Washington, DC and will showcase state use of innovative technologies to tackle regulatory challenges and drive results.

ECOS is the national nonprofit, nonpartisan association of state and territorial environmental agency leaders. Because ECOS is frequently asked about opportunities to engage, we wanted to make you aware of sponsorship benefits for this well-attended gathering.

The STEP Meeting generally attracts approximately 200 leaders from state environmental agencies; U.S. EPA, U.S. DOE, U.S. DOD, and other federal agencies; industry; and NGOs. A listing of available sponsorship opportunities is attached. To discuss further, please contact Kelly Poole at (202) 266-4939 or kpoole@ecos.org. I extend my sincere appreciation to you for considering support of ECOS' 2019 STEP Meeting.
